

Organizational Guidelines for SMS Conference Extension Workshops

ORGANIZE AN EXTENSION

We invite you to organize an SMS Conference Extension! These one-day topical workshops take place in various cities that are within reasonable proximity of the main SMS conference city. Extensions can be organized for days prior to or following the main SMS conference. For your Extension to be considered, please submit a basic, one-page proposal detailing the potential conference organizers, theme, dates, and location to Laura Kozak at lkozak@strategicmanagement.net. Below please find detailed information that will help in creating your proposal.

PROGRAM ORGANIZERS

Necessary are a few key people (2-3) in each location to serve as the organizer/organizing committee for each Extension. The committee members will be responsible for the program content and the logistical arrangements of the Extension Workshop.

PROGRAM

In coordination with the main SMS conference organizers, each Extension organizing committee will create a theme and program for the workshop that will typically consist of discussions with invited panelists and other workshop elements. Please note, Extensions are not meant to have a Call for Proposals/Papers or similar submission process.

ATTENDANCE

Approximately 40-60 attendees are expected per Workshop. We assume the Extensions will be composed of 10-20 participants who also attend the main SMS conference, plus 30-40 local scholars/participants, who would use these workshops to interact with the individuals from the main SMS conference.

LOGISTICAL FRAMEWORK AND BUDGET

Each Workshop should be planned to include coffee breaks and a group luncheon; a workshop dinner is an option to be considered at the organizers' discretion. Information and assistance for accommodation and travel should be provided by the organizers for posting on the SMS websites, but participants will be responsible for making these arrangements on their own. The hosting institution is expected to provide meeting space and some administrative support as part of its sponsorship of the Extension. Additional sponsorship support is welcome, but SMS is prepared to provide a portion of the registration fees on a reimbursement basis to offset food & beverage expenses for coffee breaks and the group luncheon as well as other expenses incurred during the Workshop.

REGISTRATION AND FEE

Prior registration of all attendees through the SMS conference extension website will be required to allow planning. A registration fee of US $105 per participant will be charged per Workshop day to cover local and overhead expenses and to ensure commitment. To deter late registrations, the fee increases to US $135 for registration 3 weeks prior to the event. SMS members receive a $20 reduction for their registration.

MARKETING

The Extensions will be featured on the SMS conference website with information on program content and logistics as made available by the organizing committees. Additional local announcements and marketing of these events are welcomed. We ask that each Extension committee let us know of any marketing plans they have for the Workshop. The SMS will provide assistance as well as the proper SMS logos for collateral. Marketing materials carrying the SMS logo and name should be made available to the SMS Executive Office for review prior to information being made public.
